

Care For Your Skin as the Seasons Change

From Everydayhealth.com

It can be particularly difficult to maintain soft, pliant skin as the weather gets colder. Take these steps to keep your skin in good shape during the winter:

- Take brief, lukewarm showers or baths. Pat dry and then immediately apply moisturizer.
- Try using a humidifier to relieve the dryness in the air. Be sure to clean it regularly according to the manufacturer's instructions to avoid mold.
- Protect your skin from the elements. Shield yourself from extreme cold and wind with layered clothing, hats, gloves, and warm shoes. Don't forget to use petrolatum-based lip balm to avoid chapped lips.
- Always use sunscreen. Regardless of the season or the weather, exposure to the sun can lead to not only dry skin, but also early aging and skin cancer.

- Apply moisturizer several times a day if needed. Older adults need to pay even more attention to their skin to keep it supple, attractive, and comfortable. As part of the normal aging process, older skin tends to lose some natural oils, making them dryer. Make sure you apply a Joint Pain Making Sleep Difficult?

Joint pain may make it difficult for people with arthritis to fall asleep and stay asleep at night. According to rheumatologist Scott J. Zashin, MD, an associate professor at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, "Sleep problems are common in patients with arthritis pain caused by chronic diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis. Patients may have difficulty falling asleep or staying asleep due to pain, anxiety, or both." Here are some eye-opening facts:

- About one-third of people who have pain while trying to sleep suffer from arthritis pain, according to a National Sleep Foundation Gallup Poll.
- According to a National Sleep Foundation "Sleep in America" poll, 72 percent of older

Sleep problems are common in patients with arthritis pain

Americans diagnosed with osteoarthritis and other types of arthritis experience problems sleeping.

People with fibromyalgia, a condition that causes joint and muscle stiffness as well as arthritis-like pain, also have difficulty sleeping. For these individuals, nighttime arthritis pain and problems sleeping can be a vicious cycle, each aggravating the other.
